

Anna Borys described how the CSA for and against issue is dividing friends in an ugly way

I recently was talking with a woman who vocally excluded two other women who'd recently either left the church or had expressed their concerns (this second woman hadn't even left the church...she had just voiced their concerns!!).

This woman I was talking to has respected these two others for YEARS and they've had very "useful home" within the church.

Both having meetings in their home, etc. But in the blink of an eye....they were ostracized for a stand they were making.

Talk about exclusion! This hurt my heart so deeply.
