

Tina Hughes explicit dissapointment with all workers that are not clearly and loudly standing up for truth

So, the thrown around "years ago" phrase has set me off again... To be frank, right, or wrong, I am pretty much at the place where I believe every worker, who is not actively fighting, standing up, speaking out LOUDLY against, has done something.

If not physically, definitely enabled/covering/are complicit... still!!! They all know the "right" things to say and the "right" facial expressions to wear. Ugh!!

And to all the female workers that think they're doing good by being submissive to the male workers... That is only good and noble IF they are Godly males... And in my opinion, the curtain/veil was torn so each one of us can have direct access to our Saviour, so if we're having trouble discerning right from wrong and good from bad, and we make an effort to access Him,

He will tell/show us....mistakes happen yes, and we have a wonderful covering for those if we truly repent... Plotted, calculated, deliberate, repeated, hidden, criminal offences... 🙄

We are EXPECTED to continue offering up our children and grandchildren as sacrifices and shut our mouths about any adult abuse as well... for what??!! The image of a perfect, peaceful ministry?? I think not.
